This information will be stored in the association's own computer systems of the data entry office, the association's board and the office. Each member of the association is assigned a membership number. The personal data is protected from third parties by suitable technical and organizational measures..
2. Other information (e.g. telephone and fax numbers) and information on non-members shall in principle only be processed internally by the association if it is useful for promoting the association's purpose and there is no indication that the data subject has an interest worthy of protection which conflicts with the processing.

4. Within the association, the members of the board and other members who have a special function in the association have access to the dog data as well as to the personal data of the members, as far as this is necessary for their work (see paragraph 1). This group of persons is only authorized to use the data by the written assurance that the passing on of the data, except for breeding purposes within the association, is prohibited.

§2 Public relations

1. The club informs the members via the club newsletter about show results, festivities and special events. Such information shall also be published on the Association's website.

In the event of an objection, no further publications will be made with regard to the objecting member, with the exception of the results of exhibitions or association events. Personal data of the objecting member will be removed from the homepage of the association.

§3 Disclosure of membership data to association members
